PREFACE

During the summer of 1933 I was fortunate in being able to go to England, and in London, employ the services of some capable genealogists, to investigate the various "traditions" concerning the Johnson ancestry. Their familiarity in such matters being very extensive, several traditions were easily dismissed. Others were investigated thoroughly with all the facilities that the location affords.

The following data is presented for the approval of the greater family. No part of the material is my own personal knowledge, being derived from Friends and County records, family traditions and printed sources. As errors may always occur, not only in recording, but in copying such matter, I can assume no responsibility for its veracity. In order that no items which I may later find to be in error, are given publicity beyond my control, I must withhold permission for reprinting this material. Interested parties will kindly investigate the references given, and draw their own conclusions.

Data relative to the earlier generations was largely drawn from a genealogy of the family published by Alexander Johnston Jr., and I can write no better preface than his, written in 1832.

"Some explanation may be expected of my reasons for presenting in this form the following account. A taste for genealogical matters having induced me to enter into a minute investigation of the pedigree of the family herein treated of, it was suggested that by putting the result of my inquiries within the reach of those connected with the family, an acceptable service would be performed". No descendant will be more disappointed with this brief outline than I. It has been difficult to segregate names from the large amount of biographical data in my files. However, it will serve as an outline for all who use the book which will appear later.

-OF FAMILY TRADITIONS-

1918960

FAMILY TRADITIONS are invaluable in the preparation of the family history. Given only a collection of birth and marriage dates, one had better not attempt to locate the families. Most of the children in a family are usually mentioned in wills, but with the early Quaker families, where disownment from the society often was equivalent to disownment from the family, and from inheritance, children are not always all included. Frequently division in cash before removal to another locality was final. Disownment from the society was often based on what today would appear minor offenses, and many appear such as, "marriage out of unity, (to a non-member, or a first cousin etc.) moving beyond any meeting, failure to settle one's debts, becoming involved in debt beyond the ability to repay, dancing, swearing, attending places of diversion, military service, lying, dressing too gaily, holding slaves" etc. After a century of existence in this country, members of this society often experienced difficulty in making suitable marriage contacts with members not related. Church elders are naturally those most impressed with enforcement of church rules. At advanced ages and with creditable lives they could poorly place themselves as examples of consanguineous marriages, and move disownment of their grandchildren for the same infraction. Naturally the easy outlet, as a dual origin of the JOHNSON family, which all later investigators believe not to be the case. The science of heredity had not then emphasized that good qualities as well as poor were enhanced by consanguinity, and that those of us who survived were materially benefited by such marriages.

I do not attempt to predicate the ancestry of any collateral descendant. I present only what I believe to be my own ascendants, and admit of any errors in interpretation that may arise. It is as a tribute to Gershom Perdue, his fine memory and cooperative spirit, that I copy excerpts from his letter of 2/14/1878 to Amy E. Johnson. It is from this data that most of the recent investigations are predicated.

"Dear Friend:- I will endeavor to comply with your request through our kind friend, Daniel Hill, in giving thee some account of thy ancestors, though somewhat out of season for one of my age, being in my eighty-eighth (88) year, and my recollection impaired, from which, to a large extent, I write.

I lived nearly the whole of my life immediately among thy family connections and some of them very old, when I was a boy, and and much interested in the history of our society. The earliest knowledge that I have of thy ancestors is that Anthony Ashley Cooper, Earl of Shaftesbury, Lord High Chancellor of England, and by some writers Lord Ashley without the name of Cooper, was born in Winbourn St. Giles, Devonshire, England. Lord Ashley was a favorite friend of Charles II. of England, who granted to Lord Clarendon, Lord Ashley, Gerard Monk and others, large parcels of land in Carolina and Virginia. Ashley's land fell to him in Louisa County Virginia, and in Carolina, where Charlestown now is. Lucretia and Penelope married two brothers by the name of Massie, and settled at Green Spring, near Camp Creek, in Louisa Co. Virginia. The daughter of Lucretia Massie, granddaughter of Lord Ashley, married John Johnson, 1st. a descendant of William the conqueror from Normandy. Penelope Massie's daughter, granddaughter of Lord Ashley married Sir William Johnston, a Scotchman. These two families, with many others of the higher class in the vicinity, by the preaching of old Joseph Newby of lower part of North Carolina, became Friends and built up Camp Creek monthly meeting and meetings composing it, Carolina meeting, Douglass meeting and Park Creek meeting. Among other worthies were Christopher Clark, the Lynches, Anthony, Douglass, Moormans, Terrills and Ballard, with many others etc.

Very truly thy friend, (Gershom Perdue)

I am impelled to comment on the account published in "Americans of Gentle Birth and their Ancestors", which states that "the Johnson arms, preserved upon an old silver pitcher" is "two lions erect, holding a gauntlet; a fish at the base of shield; three mullets in chief" which appears to be a very poor description of the arms of Johnson, of Twickenham, which was created for William Johnson Esq., when he was created a Baronet, 27 Nov. 1755, which is a half century after our ancestors are known to have settled at Green Springs. Either this individual was of another line, or it was a commercial decoration for ornamental purposes. In no event does it concern the family here-in treated. I do strongly advise that all descendants refer to the following published books, for general information and descriptive information.

(1) Southern Quakers and Slavery. Stephen B. Weeks. The Johns Hopkins Press. 1896.

(2) Campbell Chronicles and family Sketches. R.H. Early. (3) Our Quaker Friends of ye Olden tyme. James P. Bell.

These books have been widely distributed, and if not in your local library, your local librarian may borrow them for you. With the activities of how many of YOUR ascendants are you familiar? YOUR DESCENDANTS WILL BE 'LOOKING FOR YOU'.

following items were taken largely from "The Family of JOHNSTON of that Ilk, and of Caskieben" by Alexander Johnston, Jr., Writer to Majesty's signet. Published Edinburgh 1832. Printer by William Burneas.

The two families of Johnston of that Ilk, and of Caskieben, and Johnston of that Ilk in Annandale, long disputed the title to the Chiefship of the name. The pretensions of the latter proceeded on the assumption that Stephen de Johnston, the founder of the family of Caskieben, was a cadet of the Annandale branch, while the Johnstons of Caskieben always maintained that he was the head or chief of the name. On this point, Douglas in the Peerage of Scotland, merely says, "There were two families of this surname, who both designed themselves by the title of that Ilk", viz. those of Annandale in the south, and Caskieben in the north; but we cannot pretend to connect them with one another". In the Baronage, however, in treating of the family of Caskieben, he says, "they have been long designed 'de eodem' or of that Ilk, which appellation generally denotes head or chief of a clan". We shall therefore, without dwelling longer on this question, proceed with our account of the family of Caskieben, beginning with Stephen, its supposed founder, who, it is said, arrived in the north in the time of King David Bruce, who reigned from the year 1329, but the date of this event has never been settled exactly."

STEPHEN de JOHNSTON (anciently spelt de Johnnestoun or Johnnestoun and afterwards Johnnestoun or Johnstoun) was a man of great learning, which was so rare in those days that he was honoured with the title of "The Clerk"--a designation to which the clergy alone were considered to be entitled. "For troubles wherein he fell in his own country, he came into the north part of Scotland, and was pleasantly received by the Earl of Marr, to whom he became secretary". Stephen married Margaret, daughter and heiress of Sir Andrew Garrioch, of Caskieben in Aberdeenshire, Knight, by whom he got a large estate, consisting of the lands of Johnston, (so named after him). Caskieben came then the chief title of his family; and of him all the Johnstons in the north are said to have been descended. The date of Stephen's death is unknown, but on that event he became succeeded by,

JOHN de JOHNSTON of Caskieben. He married Marjory, daughter of Leighton of Ulysseshaven or Usan, an ancient family in Angus, and in her right succeeded to the lands of Inverton. He lived to a very advanced age; and dying in the reign of King James the First of Scotland, was succeeded by his son,

GILBERT de JOHNSTON of Caskieben. He got, 1430 from his kinsman, Henry de Leighton a lease for payment of an yearly rent of one merk Scots. The lands were those now known as Bishop's or Little Clinterty, in the parish of St. Machar. He married, first, Elizabeth Vans Vaus, the daughter of the Laird of Menie, in Aberdeenshire, "a man of great name and estimation for the tyme", by whom he had one son, Alexander, his successor, and three daughters. Upon his death, which took place previous to the year 1481, the succession opened to his

ALEXANDER de JOHNSTON, who in the reign of James II got his lands of Caskieben, which were formerly held in the Earls of Mar as superior, erected into a free barony. He married Agnes, daughter of Alexander Gloster of that Ilk, and of Glack, a powerful in the district Garrioch, in the shire of Aberdeen. He was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM JOHNSTON of that Ilk. He married first, Margaret, daughter of Meldrum of Fyvie, "the greatest barron for the tyme in the North part of Scotland. This gentlewoman bore to William one son, called James, . . . Gilbert, who "was provydit to nothing, because his father was slain on the field of Flodoun in his tender infancy, and so he possessed nothing of Caskieben but the bare name of Johnstoun earle". William Johnston of that Ilk, having accompanied King James IV on his expedition into England with a large body of retainers, fell by the side of his royal master on the field of Flodden, 1513, and he was succeeded by his eldest son, JAMES JOHNSTON of that Ilk, who married Clara, daughter of Barclay of Gartlie, in Aberdeenshire, and had 6th September 1521, a charter under the Great Seal from King James V., "Jacobo Johnnestoun de eodem, et Clarae Barclay ejus sponsae, &c., terrarum dominicalium de Johnstoun, Inglistoun, &c., jacen, in baronis de Johnnestoun, in vicecomitatu de Aberdene". James died in the beginning of the year 1548, and it is believed of grief, occasioned by the death of his son, and was succeeded by his grandson George.

WILLIAM JOHNSTON the eldest son of the last mentioned James, married Margaret, daughter of Alexander Hay of Dalgaty, by whom she had one son, George. This William, a loyal and gallant gentleman, fell, as his grandfather had done, in the cause of his country, on the field of Pinkie, 1547.

GEORGE JOHNSTON In George's lifetime, the already extensive possessions of the family received considerable additions. He was served heir-portioner to Alexander Hay of Dalgaty, his grandfather; and also heir-portioner to William Hay of Dalgaty, his uncle. He had further, a charter from James VI of the lands of Boyndis, in the shire of Aberdeen. He married the Honourable Christian Forbes, fourth daughter of William, seventh Lord Forbes, "who bore to him one fair born tyme, whereof thirteen came to mature age, six thereof sons, and seven daughters", viz. John, his successor, Gilbert, George, Thomas, Arthur, and William. A daughter of William became actively interested in the new "Quaker movement". "Among those who labored in the Lord's work, Elizabeth Johnston, daughter of a Physician, Dr. William Johnston, became a 'succourer of many' in promoting their spiritual progress". (Janney - History of Friends, Vol. II. pg. 143.) It was, no doubt, who converted her nephew, father of William and John, to whom this account progresses.

JOHN JOHNSTON married first, Janet, daughter of Turing of Foveran, by whom he had two sons and two daughters. His eldest son, George succeeded him, and carried the title 'of that Ilk' and all possessions. With him we leave all titles. John married secondly, Katharine daughter of 'William Lundie (Lundy) of that Ilk', one of the most ancient in Scotland. It is by this alliance that all the existing branches of the family of Johnston of that Ilk trace their descent from the ancient kings of Scotland. The family of 'Lundie (latin for Lundy) of that Ilk' was descended of the royal family of that kingdom, through Robert, the son of 'WILLIAM THE LION' (which verbal tradition in this country has often corrupted into 'William the Conqueror') and brother of King Alexander the Second; who having married the daughter and heiress, designed himself Robert de Lundie; in consequence of this descent the family of Lundie were, by a special permission of King Charles the Second, anno 1679, authorized to carry the royal arms of Scotland on their shield. (R. R. Stodard in his Scottish Arms, 1370-1678, says: "The head of the Lundins sat in parliament 1488, and Walter and his son William, from 1560 till 1590. Robert de Londonius is readily called in crown charter 'filius' by King William, and 'frater' by Alexander II. The following entry occurs in the Index of Arms. It is the service of the Lady of Johnston's (Katherine Lundie's) brother, as heir to their father: "Mali 6 1600. Joannes Lundy 'res', Magistri Gulielmi Lundy de Eodem, patris," in the lands of Lundy &c., in the county of Fife. John had by his second wife, two sons and two daughters: Thomas of Craig etc.

THOMAS JOHNSTON of Craig, eldest son by Katharine Lundie, his second wife, married Mary, daughter of Irvine of Kingeausie, by whom he had four sons and three daughters: Thomas (Jr.) of Craig died unmarried. William of Craig, an officer in the army, married in Holland, but without issue. John of Bishoptown, who carried on the line of the family. The fourth son was JAMES who was "provydit to nothing the bear name of Johnston". James was a litster in Aberdeen, of whom later. A daughter married Charles Dun of Cordyce, merchant in Aberdeen, who was, by an act of Parliament anno 1662 fined the sum of 2400 Scots, and to that extent excepted from the act of indemnity passed on the restoration of Charles II. (see Reg. Mag. Sig. Lib., 57 No 466. ibid 59, No. 57). The line of descent was carried by John Johnston of Bishoptown, who married Margaret, daughter of Alexander Alexander of Auchmull, merchant in Aberdeen, (who was commissioner to parliament for the burgh of Aberdeen anno 1667.

JAMES JOHNSTON, who was "provydit to nothing" became a litster in Aberdeen. At this period it was usual to bring up the younger sons of Scottish gentlemen to mechanical employments, with a view to the encouragement of trade and manufactures. The Litster or dyer's family was one of the oldest of the town. (see Kennedy's Annals of Aberdeen) James Johnston married Jean Oglvie, by whom he had three sons and two daughters, viz: WILLIAM, JOHN, ALEXANDER, Mary, and Jean. William, John and Alexander Johnston sailed to Virginia on a vessel going to Charles Dun 1696 (see Cameron, Landings and Sailings. Edinburgh, 1842, Vol 2, pg. 246) The names of the children of James Johnston are found in St. Nicholas Parish Record. Whether he is the "James Johnston" of Quaker records is not known. The Burgh Records of Aberdeen list James birth 1656 and his marriage 1674. The date of James death is not known. He was living 1704. Mrs. Jean Ogilvie Johnson March 1716 (Extract Burgh Records of Aberdeen). Fiske, in "Old Virginia and her Neighbors" states, (pg. 42): Sir William Berkeley, of Sir Maurice Berkeley (member of London Company) had an older brother, Lord Berkeley of Stratton, who was a favorite of Charles II, one of the group of Proprietors to whom the King granted Carolina in 1663. Sir William Berkeley lived in retirement on the rural estate of BEENSPRING, near Jamestown. . . The evils of Charles's mis-government soon began to show themselves. A swarm of place-hunters beset the court who carelessly gave them appointments in Virginia, or recommended them to Berkeley for places. Judges, Sheriffs, Revenue Collectors and other persons were thus appointed without reference to fitness . . . etc." It is supposed that through some such arrangement, Alexander Johnston, who was commissioner to parliament, so directed his nephew's, who, as the family properties passed to the older male descent, "provydit to nothing, and so possess nothing of Caskieben but the bear name of Johnston alenarie".

ASHLEY OF WINBOURNE ST. GILES.

The Ashleys came originally from Wiltshire, where they possessed the manor of Ashley, very early period. Benedict Ashley, of Ashley, living in the reigns of Henry III, and I. was the great-great-grandfather of:

ASHLEY, who flourished under Henry IV. and his two immediate successors. He married, only daughter and heiress of Sir John Hamelyn, by Joan Plecy, by whom he acquired manor of Winbourne St. Giles, in the county of Dorset, and had a son, ASHLEY, living temp. Edward IV. who married Margaret, daughter of Robert Turgis, and other of,

ASHLEY, of Winbourne St. Giles, who died 1493, leaving by Elizabeth, daughter of Raynold, of Sussex, a daughter and a son successor, ASHLEY, esq. of Winbourne, who m. Radezen, daughter of Robert Gilbert, of Somersetshire and Henry (Sir) his heir, Anthony of Damerham, who m. Dorothy, daughter of John Lyte, of Lytes Carey, in Somersetshire and had Anthony of whom later. . . .

MARY ASHLEY, of Winbourne St. Giles, M.P. for Dorsetshire, born in 1519 and knighted at coronation of Queen Mary, and appointed ranger of Hold Forest. He married Catherine, daughter of Sir John Basset, knt. and was succeeded by his son,

MARY ASHLEY, knt. of Winbourne St. Giles, b. 1548, gentleman pensioner to Queen Elizabeth I. m. Anne, daughter of Lord Burgh, and had, with four daughters, three sons, who died without issue, and the family estates passed to his cousin, ANTHONY ASHLEY, of Winbourne St. Giles, who sat in several parliaments, and was highly distinguished by the favor of Queen Elizabeth. He was secretary to her council of war, received the honour of knighthood for his services at the capture of Calais; the account of which event he brought over to her majesty. He was subsequently secretary to the council in the reign of James I. and was created a Baronet in 1622. Sir Anthony m. first, Jane, relict of Thomas Cokaine, esq., of Okeover, in Staffordshire, by whom he had an only daughter and heiress, Anne, who marrying Sir John Cooper, bart., conveyed the estates to the Cooper family. His lordship had, previously to his elevation to the peerage, been created in 1661, Baron Ashley, in accordance with a stipulation in his father's marriage settlement, that if the family ever attained the peerage, their title should be that of Ashley. Anne Ashley and Sir John Ashley-Cooper, (by the above agreement) were the parents of celebrated statesman, Sir Anthony Ashley-Cooper, Earl of Shaftesbury.

SIR ANTHONY ASHLEY, FIRST EARL OF SHAFTESBURY, son and heir, born 1621, inherited a very large fortune from his maternal grandfather, yet had the education of a constitutional lawyer at Lincoln's Inn, from whence he was called from speculation to action, in the parliament of 1640, Shaftesbury, at the early age of nineteen years. On the restoration he was named a commissioner for the trial of the regicides, and was created BARON ASHLEY, of Winbourne St. Giles. In 1670 he became a member of the administration called "The Cabal", in which he was one of the treasury and chancellor of the exchequer; and on the resignation of the Lord Bridgeman, Nov. 1672, he was constituted lord high chancellor of England, having been sworn in, April preceding, BARON COOPER, of Paulett, and Earl of Shaftesbury. He married first, Anne, dau. of Thomas Lord Coventry; secondly, Frances, dau. of David Cecil, third Earl of Salisbury; thirdly, August 30, 1655, at St. Paul's Covent Garden, Anne, dau. William (Spencer) son of Spencer of Wormleighton by Penelope, 1st. dau. Henry (Windsor) 2nd. Earl of Northampton, who delivered him two daughters. His son and heir was by the second lady. The date of his death is not known. She was living when he was in 1701. ANTHONY ASHLEY of Winbourne St. Giles. In 1662 Lord Ashley and others, being apprized of the excellent soil of the country, united and formed a project for planting a colony on it. Charles II granted them lands from Lucke Island (southern Virginia) to the river St. Matthews (Florida) and extending so west to the Pacific Ocean, which embraced almost the whole of "Southern State". Of this immense region the king constituted them absolute lords and proprietors.

THE FAMILY OF COOPER -- COUNTY OF HAUTS

JOHN COOPER, Esq. died 1495

RICHARD COOPER, Esq. married Jane, dau. of Sir John Kingswell, of Sydmonton, co. Hauts, and purchased the Manor of Paulett, 1531. He d. 1566.

SIR JOHN COOPER, son and heir, born 1552, m. Margaret, or Martha, dau. Anthony Skutt, of Stanton Drew, co. Somerset, Esq. He was M.P. for Whitechurch, co. Hauts, 1586, and d. 1610.

SIR JOHN COOPER, First Baronet, of Rockbourne, co. Hauts, son and heir, married twice; Anne, daughter and heir of Sir Anthony Ashley, of Winbourne St. Giles's, co. Dorset, secretary at war to Queen Elizabeth, was the mother of his heir. He was created a Baronet 1622 and he died March 23, 1671.

absolute lords were by their charter empowered to enact and publish any laws or constitutions which they judged proper and necessary; to institute counties, baronies and colonies within the province; to erect courts of judicature, and appoint civil judges, magistrates and officers; to erect forts, castles, cities and towns; to make war; to levy, muster and train men to the use of arms, and in cases of necessity to exercise the martial law; to confer titles of honour, to build harbours, make ports and enjoy customs and subsidies, which they, with the consent of the freemen, would impose on goods loaded and unloaded, reserving the fourth part of the gold and silver ore found within the province to the crown.

In 1672 the King, by the advice of Shaftesbury, set forth a declaration dispensing with the penal laws against nonconformists of every denomination, and indulging to protestant dissenters the public, and to catholics the private, exercise of their religious worship. Shaftesbury was made chancellor chiefly for the purpose of affixing the great seal to this declaration, which the present Lord Keeper Bridgeman had refused to do. The house of commons remonstrated against this exercise of prerogative, and after an inefficient struggle Charles recalled the declaration and broke the seals with his own hand. From that moment Shaftesbury declared that the king had forsaken himself, and decided to be forsaken. Accordingly, he promoted the test act in the house of commons, and stood forth in the house of lords as the leader of the protestant party. From so unexpected a change, his removal from office was a matter of course, 1673. Shaftesbury, whose boast it was to 'ride in the whirlwind and direct the storm' utterly embroiled the kingdom, by persuading Monmouth to return to England, from his exile in Holland, without license from his father, and by his opposition to the government. At length he found it necessary to fly from his residence in Aldersgate Street and take refuge in the suburbs of the city. Tradition is that his two daughters married brothers by the name of 'E', who came to Greenspring to enjoy public positions in the colony of the Lords Proprietors. At length, Shaftesbury fled to Holland, where he landed in November 1682. Here, while pondering the consequences of former intrigues, he was seized with the 'gout in his stomach', and expired, 21 Jan. 1683.

"Sleep, thou most active of mankind! Oh make Thy last low bed, and death's long requiem take,
Thou who, whilst living, kept'st the world awake!" Raleigh Redivivus.

In 1729 all of the Proprietors but Lord Carteret sold to the king for the sum of $45,000 their whole right and title in N. C. One of the Lords Proprietors was an English barrister, John Cotton Esq. of the Middle Temple, London. He represented the interests originally assigned to Lord Ashley. He was the grandson of the Rev. Thomas Cotton, father of Lady Lisle. In the time of his proprietorship many of his tenants were induced to emigrate. It is possible that the Massies were so influenced, but I have been unable to find any record of their migration to Lord Ashley's daughters. It is probable that in the troublous times that the marriage was not given publicity, and that they were privately married and hurried away to their assumed positions of responsibility in their fathers' Proprietary government. Tradition is that the older children of these Massie marriages were daughters, one of whom married William Johnstons, and the other John Johnstons.

ably the complete families of Alexander, William and John Johns(t)on will never be known. The three brothers settled in New Kent belonged to St.Peters Parish. Alexander had: Jacob, Richman and William (b.1714), and his wife died 1715. Tradition is that the lliam was cared for by a Rev. McDaniel. However, no descendants are known to me, and he is not concerned in this set of charts, l discussion will appear in a more extended book of genealogy. The exact families of William and John are not known. The names laughters do not appear in old family traditions. Their descendants do not appear in these charts, and discussion of them will e reserved until a later date. There appears to be no question of the following families, except as indicated by question marks. rite a full correspondence with any persons having information in this connection. There seems to be no satisfactory time to in- e omission of the "t". Tradition is that "the families in the Church of England were too proud to drop the "t" and the Quakers, e to use it", and this is generally the case. Quaker records of both families never use the "t". The "Heads of families--1780 sts about one-half of both families as JohnsTon, and particularly the North Carolina. For convenience I have made "Johnson" uni- my apologies to the "ton's".

An announcement has recently been received of the publication of a book of 350 pages entitled, "Richmond, William and Timothy Terrell, Colonial Virginians", by Celeste Jane Terrell Barnhill. With this complete data available, I shall make no more mention of Terrell lines in this series of brief charts. The price of this book is $10.00. It is a limited edition and those interested may well subscribe while they are available. When the edition is sold they will be available only from initial subscribers who will release them for two or three times the purchase price.

:---"Mark Twain" was born in Florida Mo.,and lived as a boy in the town of Hanibal, where his father died1847, as Samuel was but 12 years of age. In the town of Florida is Missouri's monument to Mark Twain. Four of the brothers and sisters of Mark Twain died young in life. The surviving sister, Pamela, who married William A. Moffet, and the brother Orion, were the two who lived to see the success of the humorist. Orion also was a writer. He died in Keokuk Iowa. (by the late Wm.M. Clemens)

Although some data is known on other Clemens lines, they will not be carried further in this outline.

The following was written by the late Wm. Montgomery Clemens.
"Jeffrey Clemens married Elizabeth Fuller in London, 1590. They had 5 children. The third son, Jeremiah was born 1607. Jeffrey died 1609 and his widow and 4 small children came to America in the George, landing 1621 at Jamestown. Va. She married again 1621, Colonel Ralph Hamor. The son Jeremiah, ancestor of Samuel J. Clemens, known to the world as Mark Twain, married Edy
----, in James City 1634. His son Francis was born in Surry Co.
and was the father of Francis Clemens who married Elizabeth Meriwether. He died 1721. In his will there is mention of a son Benjamin, who was one of the founders of Lynchburg, Va. He m.
Susanna Hill 1736. His will filed in Campbell Co. mentions Adam, born 1738, who was a farmer in Bedford Co., where he married Agnes Johnson 1765, who were the grandparents of "Mark Twain".

Chart 43

Joseph, Timothy Duck and Laban Johnson, Friends of the vicinity of Carrsville, Isle of Wight County, Va., were contemporaries, if not brothers. A number of these descendants have JOHNSON ascendants through maternal lines but it was deemed best to place them here tentatively, until their identity is better known. Many of the Isle of Wight records were destroyed by fire in 1866. County records are intact, however, with which descendants of this line may work.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONCERNING THESE LINES:

- (1) Joseph Johnson -- Miss. Charlotte Johnson, 914 Elm St. Grinnell, Ia.
- (2) Timothy Duck Johnson -- Miss. Rachel Johnson, Darlington, Ind.
- (3) Laban Johnson -- J. Wilmar Johnson, Nineveh, Ind.
